

It might have an impact on your federal taxes. The IRS has allowed certain deductions based on the value of your property. The difference in its value without vs with the terms of a conservation easement can, in some cases, be applied as a charitable gift against your federal taxes. Changes in tax laws can change without notice, therefore, such matters should be discussed with your tax advisor.