

No. We have found that some owners agree to have public access to all or part of their properties and some allow none. Some will make allowances for special events/groups upon request for permission.